The new quota of Red Cross yarn has arrived and people desiring to knit may procure it at the following places: Mrs. David Lewis, Wrigley; Mrs. John Arnett, Adele; Ezel school; Ezel; West Liberty Department store; West Liberty. We have yarn for mufflers, sweaters, helmets, wristlets, and socks.

The local Red Cross chapter will give each woman a pin who completes 250 hours of work. This amount of work does not have to be done in a single year, but if you have several hours' work to your credit you may add it to this year's yarn.

AVIATION CADET Maxwell Field, Ala., May 19—Asa Ray Kemplin, son of Mrs. Mary B. Kemplin of Grassy Creek, Kentucky, is now enrolled as an aviation cadet in the army air forces pre-flight school for pilots at Maxwell Field, located on the outskirts of Montgomery, the capital of Alabama.

Here the new class of cadets is receiving nine weeks of intensive military, physical, and academic training preparatory to beginning their actual flight instruction at one of the many primary flying schools in the army air forces southeast training center.

Cadet Kemplin is a graduate of Morgan county high school, West Liberty, Kentucky, and was an aircraft mechanic when he entered the service. He attended army aircraft mechanics school, Boston, Mass., from Nov. 1, 1942, to March 30, 1943, and was accepted as an aviation cadet in the army air forces on May 4, 1943, at Nashville, Tennessee.

ROWLAND GETS MEDAL First Lieutenant Conrad A. Rowland of an army air force troop carrier squadron in the Pacific is a member of the "Bully Beef Express" and doing work "unheard of as far as the operation of planes goes," the Courier has just been informed by his commanding officer, Major J. H. Lackey. Lt. Rowland's home is at Ezel.

Lt. Rowland is a first pilot. "He now wears the Distinguished Flying Cross and before this is over will be decorated again," says Major Lackey.

HOLLIDAY—HASTY Lena Holliday, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Holliday of Holliday, who had been working for some time at Lockland, Ohio, was married to Shelby Hasty of Route 1, Harrisonville, O., son of Henry G. Hasty. They were married at the home of Rev. E. H. Hillard of Lockland, O., May 17, 1943. The following persons witnessed the marriage: Mr. and Mrs. Estor Dalton, Mary Hasty, Justine Stacy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herrington, Charles Williams and Bonny Holliday. They left after the wedding and had a delicious supper at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Hasty.

On May 18, the bride and bridegroom motored to Kentucky and ar- rived at the bride's home, where another supper was given in their honor. The following friends of the bride were there to welcome them: her mother, father, sisters Thelma and Nora Gay, and brother Edward, Josie Oney, Herbert Oney, Maredia Oney, Irene Oney, Woodford Oney, Charles Arnett, Victor Coffey, Aliza Holliday, and Mildred Holliday.

They will remain here for a few days and will then return to Ohio, where they will live for a while and continue their work.

PEYTON—PEYTON Mr. and Mrs. George W. Peyton announce the marriage of their son, Joseph M. Peyton, to Marie Peyton, both of West Liberty. The couple, accompanied by Mrs. George W. Peyton, motored to Paintsville on Saturday, May 15, and a single ring ceremony was performed at 3 by Rev. Noah Ward, Baptist minister of Paintsville.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Peyton, formerly of Mansfield, O., now deceased. The bride has lived on Long Branch, near West Liberty, for the past five years.

The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Peyton. Mr. Peyton is a graduate of the Morgan county high school and a graduate of the Coyne Electrical school, Chicago, Illinois; also completed a machinist course at the NYA war production shop at West Liberty and Mayo vocational training at Paintsville.

Mr. Peyton left Thursday, May 20, for the U. S. army. Pvt. Peyton will be stationed at Ft. Thomas for a short time. Mrs. Peyton is at the home of Pvt. Peyton's parents on Long Branch. She will join her husband later.

Their many friends wish Pvt. and Mrs. Peyton success and many happy years together.

Class Picnic Mrs. Edward Turner took the girls of Mrs. W. M. Gardner's Sunday school class on a picnic Thursday afternoon. Present were Imogene Sheets, Pauline Blair, Mahora Chit- trayner, Betty Joe Nickell, Ruth Evelyn Franklin, Ella Joe Blair, Josephine and Virginia Turner, Harold Edward Turner, and Mrs. Ed- ward Turner. All had a nice lunch and returned late in the afternoon. All reported a good time.

Enlisted in WAVES Harriet Virginia Gentry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Gentry of 1108 W. Franklin st., Prescott, Mich., and granddaughter of Mrs. B. A. Emdwin of West Liberty, has enlisted in the WAVES and has been assigned to Hunter's college, New York, for six weeks' training. Miss Gentry had been attending at Bennington college, Vermont, but decided to enlist in the naval auxiliary service instead of resuming college after the spring vacation.

Family Dinner Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Stamper of Cannel City had the pleasure of entertaining the following members of their family for Sunday dinner: Mrs. A. H. Anderson and Mrs. G. E. Nickell and daughter Maurine, of Combs; Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Nickell and children Billy and Carolyn, of Blue Diamond; and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Stamper and daughter Betty Jean, of Cincinnati, Ohio. A very pleasant day was enjoyed by all.

Warfare Production That unusual warfare production is being carried on by 4-H club members in Montgomery county is told by Farm Agent Floyd McDaniel. Many members have enlisted in a number of projects to help increase the nation's food supply. Charles P. Previtt is feeding 22 lambs for the district show and sale and five beef calves. He is also growing four and a half acres of tobacco and, with his mother, is managing a flock of 200 chickens. Tommy and Bobby Sutton as brother partners have a flock of 20 sheep, two brood sows, two cows with calves, and in addition, they are brooding chicks. Prospects are good that 60 4-H club lambs and 30 Utopia club lambs from the county will be ready for the district sale and sale.

* RATION REMINDERS Gasoline "A" Book coupons No. 6, good for four gallons each, became valid May 22 outside the eastern area. Within the east coast shortage area, "A" book coupons No. 5, good for three gallons each, must last thru July 21.

Sugar Coupon No. 12, good for 5 lb. must last thru May 31. Coupon No. 13 becomes valid June 1, and will be good for 5 lb. thru Aug. 15. Coupons No. 15 and 16 became good May 24 for 5 lb. each for home canning purposes. Housewives may apply to their local boards for additional rations if necessary.

Coffee Stamp No. 23 (1 lb.) good thru May 30.

Shoes No. 17 stamp in war Ration Book One good for one pair thru June 15. Stamp No. 18 (1 pr.) will become valid June 16.

Meats, etc.—Reds stamps E, F, G, H, J remain valid thru May. Processed foods—Blue Stamps G, H, J remain valid thru June 7. K, L, M became valid May 24.

Destroy Expired Stamps Housewives are urged to destroy all expired red or blue ration stamps to help guard against black markets in food. Reports to OPA indicate that many storekeepers have asked their customers for expired stamps, and in turn have used them to buy more food from wholesalers. Because food stamps can be sold at retail without points, every expired stamp given to a storekeeper is a potential contribution to an illegal market.

New Way to Get Canning Sugar Sugar for home canning can be obtained by using stamps 15 and 16 in War Ration Book One, instead of "sugar allowance coupons" as previously announced. Each stamp is worth five pounds. Consumers who require more than ten pounds per person for canning will apply to their local ration boards for an additional allowance.

Applications for Ration Book 3 Applications for War Ration Book No. 3, which will provide stamps to replace those running out in existing books, are now being distributed by letter carriers. Each application is good for a single individual or an entire family. Consumers will fill out and return application cards, which are pre-addressed to OPA mail centers, between June 1 and June 10. Around June 20 and up to July 21, OPA centers will mail books to the applicants.

Gasoline Dealers 44 TI Gasoline ration books have been missing from the rationing board at Newport. Please keep on the lookout for these books, numbers F40251N6 to F40251N8, inclusive, and should any of them show up notify us immediately.

Tire Inspections C Gas Ration holders must have tire inspection by May 31, 1943. B Gas Ration holders must have tire inspection by June 30.

Merchants Must Register Any merchants who have not registered on forms 1302 and 1601 must immediately get in touch with the local war price and rationing board about the matter. You are not authorized to handle canned goods, dried fruits and beans, or meats, fats, etc., unless you are registered as retailer of these rationed foods.

PEOPLE AHEAD OF CONGRESS According to a poll conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion, 74 percent of the people of the United States believe that an "international police force" should be set up after the war "to try to keep peace throughout the world."

No such overwhelming sentiment is visible in congress, which is unduly impressed by a vociferous minority.

One problem of democracy is to secure action in the national interest, without undue deference to the prejudice and opposition of small groups. Sooner or later there will be an appreciation of the right of the majority to rule the country.

There is only one remedy for the repeated failure of congress to express the opinion of the majority of the nation. That is to leave some congressmen at home. The sooner it is done the better it will be for the general welfare.

WORMS IN TOBACCO BEDS Tobacco beds are being injured in some localities by a large white grub that tunnels in the soil and disturbs the roots of young plants. The grub is the larva of the green June beetle. Check your beds and see if your plants are being injured by this worm.

The most successful control measure is a poisoned bait which is broadcast on the bed late in the evening. The bait is made by mixing, where dry, a pound of Paris green with 25 pounds of either wheat bran or corn meal and then adding just enough water so the bait crumbles when picked up in the hand.

The bait is used at the rate of 10 to 25 pounds to 100 square yards of plant bed.

More Hemp in Carter In Carter county, 241 farmers have contracted to grow 614 acres of hemp for seed. Farm Agent R. H. King reports that the increase in acreage over last year is due to the urgent need for more seed, the profitability of the crop as determined by those who grew it last year, and the increase of 82 per cent in the price of seed.

ADKINS Mrs. Stella Williams Adkins of Lenox, born June 2, 1897, departed this life May 17, 1943, aged 45 years, 11 months, and 16 days.

In 1919 she was married to Willie Adkins. To this union were born eleven children, Velma and Geneva (deceased), Lynn B. Adkins of Jeffersonville, Indiana, Mrs. Ella Mullins of Redwine, and Evelyn, Ellis, Len-ville, Lena, Helen, Edna, and Jimmie at home.

She has two sisters, Mrs. John Ison of Sandy Hook, and Mrs. John Trimble of West Liberty, and one brother, B. A. Williams of Lenox, besides a host of other relatives and friends to mourn her departure.

She was converted early in life and led a true christian life and left a bright testimony that she was ready to meet Jesus. She was a devoted and loving mother.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Dallas Beuchimer, Jesse Gambill, and Lonnie Pelfrey. Burial was in the Day cemetery at Lenox, "where to sleep till the judgment morn."

It's just been a week since you left us, "mom,"

"It seems like a year to me, The angles came and got you, Your lovely smile I still see, 'Till meet you, mother, when my trials here are o'er; Our circle cannot be broken on that 'Heavenly shore.'"

MISS EVELYN ADKINS

CARD OF THANKS We want to thank the people for their kindness shown during the illness of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Stella Adkins, and FAMILY WILLIE ADKINS AND FAMILY

MEMORIAL In Memory of MR. HARLEN D. LEWIS Who Passed Away May 16, 1928 We think of him in silence, We often repeat his name; What would we give to clasp his hand And see him smile again? We cannot call the old days back, And his hand we cannot touch. We will never lose sweet memories Of the one we loved so much. Sadly missed by wife and children. (Adv.)

IN MEMORY OF ROY CHARLES It has been two years, dear son, Since you left this world of care; Tho I am lonely, I know you are happy In your mansion bright and fair. The call was sudden, and the shock severe, We little knew such grief was near; Only those who have lost can tell The pain of parting without farewell. The happy home we once enjoyed— How sweet the memory still! But death has left an aching void Where this world can never fill. A loving son, so dear, so rare; The trials he went thru, few could bear. He never complained; he wasn't that kind; He was one of those sons so hard to find. So peaceful be thy rest, dear son; 'Tis so sweet to breathe thy name! Oh, smile upon me from above; Some day we'll never say goodbye again. (Adv.)

MOTHER

SWAT THE ROOSTER Getting every egg produced to the consumer in good condition is important this year. Unusable eggs cost Kentucky poultry raisers a million dollars a year, and much of this loss is due to roosters running with the flock in the summer.

Now that the hatching season is over, poultry raisers should sell their roosters. Hens lay just as well without roosters, and some people think better. Also, roosters eat a lot of feed. For every two roosters, three hens can be fed. And the hens will lay eggs, while the roosters will not.

Infertile eggs—that is, eggs produced without roosters—keep better than fertile eggs. In fact, it is next to impossible to keep fertile eggs in midsummer. They should be taken to town almost every day, while infertile eggs may be kept several days altho they should be sold two or three times a week.

In addition to the fact that roosters are useless after the hatching season, and from then on are just consumers of valuable feed, their sale at this time will help increase the meat supply. Chickens are not rationed, and are commanding a good price because of the scarcity of other meat. Egg buyers know they will have less spoilage among eggs after the roosters are gone. They can pay more for eggs when they are infertile.

Get rid of your roosters now! Save the valuable feed they will eat, and use it to feed the hens better. Hens lay eggs! Roosters eat!

FLAT WOODS Reported by G. B. Cox May 24.—Mrs. Alice Gibson was the Saturday and Sunday guest of Mrs. Clarence Gibson of Grassy Creek.

Jesse Cox was at Grassy Creek on business the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Carpenter have just received word from their son Carvil, who has had service in Africa, that he will see them soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor May and children, of West Liberty, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Henry.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Air Raids Soften Europe for Invasion; Decisive Allied Moves Against Japan Forecast in Washington Strategy Meet; WLB Regains Authority on Wage Boosts

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

With activity against the Japs on all eastern fronts forecast by recent Washington conferences, Allied air attacks against the enemy loom large in the tactical picture. Above are shown four American-trained Chinese pilots looking over the instrument panel of a P-40, in company with Maj. Grant Mahoney of the U. S. air force in China.

OFFENSIVES:

Europe and Asia Both

Not only Allied smashes against Hitlerite Europe, but decisive campaigns against Jap-held domains in Asia and the South Pacific in weeks to come were on the United Nations' war timetable scheduled by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in their Washington conferences.

That activity against Japan would be stepped up on a major scale was indicated by two developments. One was the presence at the Washington conferences of Commander-in-Chief Sir Archibald Wavell of India, Admiral Sir James Somerville, the Eastern fleet commander, and Sir Richard Peirse, the India air commander. The other was the disclosure that Admiral William F. Halsey and Gen. Douglas MacArthur had met to co-ordinate future operations in their areas.

Indicative of the trend toward decisive American action was a Tokyo radio report that strong U. S. forces had invaded the Jap-held island of Attu in the Aleutians.

Observers believed that future moves on Japan might take on a nutcracker character. One prong would close in on Nippon from the east, via Halsey's and MacArthur's combined forces in the Pacific. The other would squeeze Japan's flank from the Indian ocean and the India-Burma front, using the combined commands of Wavell, Somerville and Peirse.

TRADE PACTS:

Green Light by House

Surviving debate and the threat of crippling limitations, President Roosevelt's reciprocal trade program was extended by the house of representatives for a term of two years.

As debate had divided on party lines and the Republicans had supported a series of amendments which the Democrats charged would have been "a kiss of death" to the entire program, Speaker Sam Rayburn had rallied support sufficient to insure favorable action. While gaining main support from Republicans, the amendments were offered by Democratic Congressman West of Texas, only New Deal member of the house ways and means committee to oppose extension of the act.

Reciprocal trade pacts have been negotiated with 27 nations in the last nine years.

CANNING:

Kitchens Defined

A definition of "home canning" was released by the Office of Price Administration to allay housewives' fears about giving up rationing points for foods processed in co-operative centers now being organized in many parts of the country.

The OPA defined "home canned" foods as those processed "in a kitchen primarily used for the preparation of meals, or in a kitchen used to demonstrate preparation of such meals"—such as in a school or home economics center.

If a farmer has a separate building where he customarily does his canning, he must get permission from his ration board to use it.

POSTWAR:

'A Mighty Flow'

Envisioning a "mighty flow of goods and materials" to war ravaged areas in the coming peace era, Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, said that the United States should welcome and encourage the development of other nations when the war is over.

"Today private business, as well as government is determinedly planning for a postwar period that will be so economically sound that peace can be permanent," he said.

RUSSIA:

Donets Flares Anew

Even as the Red army had continued its methodical, grinding drive against the line of German fortifications outside Novorossiisk, last Nazi-held bastion in the Caucasus, other Russian forces to the north in the Donets river valley had opened fierce attacks near Lisichansk, about 125 miles southeast of Khar'kov.

For weeks, Soviet dispatches had reported trainload after trainload of German troops rolling eastward to the Russian front. But Hitler had kept his moves for what would be his last chance offensive well masked.

In the action near Lisichansk, gateway to the eastern Donets basin, the Russians said the enemy had tried a wedge-shaped drive into Russian-held territory, but this thrust was pushed back. In pursuing the retreating Nazis the Red troops were able to establish themselves on a hill of "great tactical importance."

AIR RAIDS:

Bombs Write History

Cologne and Dortmund had suffered destructive Allied air raids that dwarfed the damage visited on London by the Luftwaffe in the battle of Britain, but it remained for Duisburg, center of German war and transportation hub of the Nazi defense of western Europe, to be smashed by the heaviest aerial assault in all history.

The RAF was the Allied instrument of destruction. It was estimated that as many as 2,000 tons of bombs were dropped. The heaviest previous raid ever made anywhere was that on Cologne, on May 31, 1942, when 1,000 bombers were employed and more than 1,500 tons of explosives were rained on the Nazi city. An attack on Dortmund had reached the intensity of the Cologne foray, but the Duisburg raid was the heaviest of all time.

That the Duisburg raid was but a prelude to what Nazi-held Europe might expect was indicated by devastating forays which followed immediately. American Flying Fortresses continued the marathon by making their own heaviest attack since the war began on St. Omer and Meaulte in northern France.

Meanwhile in the East the Russian air force took the initiative away from the Nazis, while Red planes smashed at German communications at Warsaw, capital of Poland, and its suburb of Praga. In the Mediterranean area, U. S. bombers strafed airfields and shipping facilities in Sicily and on the Italian invasion coast.

WAGE BOOSTS:

WLB May Act

The War Labor board got back some of its discretionary authority to make wage adjustments. James F. Byrnes, economic stabilization director, announced the new policy in a directive specifying that the board may now raise wages "to aid in the prosecution of the war or correct gross inequities."

Mr. Byrnes, however, qualified his action with the limitation that such wage adjustments must not cause price rises or stand in the way of price reductions.

The new policy directive was issued in response to the WLB's appeal for clarification of its position as a result of President Roosevelt's recent "hold the line" anti-inflation order. The board had complained that it was virtually stripped of all discretionary powers in wage cases, since the President's order had limited its actions.

While restoring authority to eliminate "gross inequities" Mr. Byrnes' directive did not restore to the board the power to correct "inequalities" which it held prior to the President's "hold the line" order.

SUBMARINES:

Allies' Defense Grows

The Allies were making steady progress against Hitler's hitherto most potent weapon—the submarine. Decreases in monthly shipping losses by the United Nations and the preponderance of ocean-transported Allied munitions and supplies in North Africa at the victory finale were indicative of this.

Evidence of how the Allies were successfully applying air and sea power plus grit and stout hearts against the Nazi subsea peril abounded in epic report issued by the British admiralty describing how navy escort ships and Royal Canadian Air force planes had sunk or probably sunk 10 German submarines in an eight-day battle in the Atlantic.

Characterizing the action as the biggest single Allied victory against U-boats, the admiralty report said that planes, destroyers, frigates, corvettes, cutters and sloops joined in the battle continuing day and night for eight days. As many as 25 enemy submarines were in action at one time. The battle finally turned in favor of the convoy. "Some damage was suffered," the admiralty said, "but the majority of the merchantmen reached port in safety."

MERGER:

Wire Giants Unite

Improved telegraph service for those engaged directly in the war and for the general public in the post-war period was forecast as a result of the merger of Postal Telegraph Inc., and Western Union Telegraph company.

Together the two companies do a business of about $145,000,000 a year and their combined assets will approach $500,000,000.

Culminating negotiations and discussions covering more than 20 years, the merger was made possible by recent congressional action and by approval of the Federal Communications commission. Under the terms of the agreement, Western Union will acquire all assets and all business of Postal Telegraph and assume its liabilities and obligations, including the amount owed by Postal to the Reconstruction Finance corporation at the time of the closing of the agreement.

CURB:

War Plant Building

Ordering a halt on virtually all war plant construction which cannot be completed by October 1, the War Production board announced that the nation now has enough industrial plants to produce the materials required to beat the Axis.

Meanwhile the board had directed a widespread curbs on machine plant tools and other existing facilities to the production of more urgently needed goods. Calling its action a "significant milestone in the war program," the WPB said that men and materials would be channeled elsewhere into the war program.

WPB officials estimated that construction of between $500,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 in new war plants would be halted, even if it were necessary to dismantle partially completed ones. Many machine tools orders will be cancelled, and tool plants will be converted to the production of "things that shoot."

The announcement emphasized that there "has been no easing-off in the demand for critical materials; there is on the horizon no indication whatever of a lessening in the demand for labor."

LIFELINE:

For Small Business

Hope for financial aid for small store owners, operators of gasoline and service stations and other small businesses adversely affected by the war was held forth by the Reconstruction Finance corporation in announcing a loan program.

Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, said the program would be in the hands of the RFC Mortgage company. The company, he added, is ready to consider loans against real estate, including stores, privately owned gasoline and service stations and business properties generally that have lost their earning power by reason of wartime restrictions and regulations.

Mr. Jones announced that three types of loans will be considered: participation loans; refunding loans; and care and preservation loans.

MISCELLANY:

COFFEE: Beginning June 1, Americans will get enough coffee to make one and one-fourth cups a day compared with present rations, the OPA announced.

PAPER: The Office of War Information's output of news releases reached a record high of 53 in a single day. Included was publicity release urging conservation of paper.

SUMMER WORK: School teachers who take summer jobs will not be frozen into them, the War Manpower commission announced, in answer to inquiries from teachers who wanted to do war work during summer vacations.

PROMOTIONS: The appointments of Simon Bolivar Buckner Jr. and John Lesesne DeWitt to the temporary grades of lieutenant generals in the army were confirmed by the U. S. senate.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT AND INDUSTRY CONTROL

SO FAR during the war the federal government has invested between 13 and 15 billion dollars in the erection and equipment of war industry plants. These plants have been operated by private concerns working on government contracts.

The National Planning board proposes as a post-war measure that these plants be retrofitted for the manufacture of peace-time products and be operated by the government as a means of surmounting the after-war unemployment problem.

Such a move would mean the beginning of state capitalism in America.

Free enterprise as we have known it in America cannot live with state capitalism. Private capital cannot be induced to compete with the unlimited funds of government. When government enters business, private capital quits.

In the end we would all be working for the government, if we worked at all, and there would be no more jobs than would be provided by our present system of free enterprise. The incentive that produces invention, scientific discovery and progress would be gone. We would be a completely and permanently regimented people—worker, farmer, professional man, all of us. We would be permanently subject to the direction of a bureaucratic system, as are the people of Italy, Germany and Russia.

American people want none of that. Such a system is not what our armed forces are fighting for, or for which the home front is willingly making sacrifices. It is not a thing we can afford to encourage, even as a temporary solution of an employment problem. Once saddled upon the country, it means the end of the system which has made America great and prosperous and given to us the highest living standard the world has ever known. We must beware of any such expedient.

HUMAN RIGHTS AND PROPERTY RIGHTS

WHEN IN 1920 Gen. Leonard Wood was a candidate for the Republican nomination for President, we frequently ate lunch together at the Adventurers' Club in Chicago. A plank in General Wood's platform pronounced for property rights. I insisted that human rights were of far greater importance than property rights.

"If you can prepare a statement for me," said the general, "which defines human rights but does not encompass property rights, I will accept your statement."

I tried, but did not succeed. Human rights and the right to accumulate are inseparable. It is the human right to accumulate which is the foundation of American progress. It has encouraged invention and scientific investigation; it has built industries; it has put the soil under cultivation. The right to own, to have and to hold, is the incentive to work. General Wood was right.

BOX OF CANDY AND BUREAUCRACY

A SMALL CHILD with whom I have established a friendship likes candy in a box, but the mother objects to the child having more than a half-pound box. In a candy store I found an abundance of the kind of candy the child is permitted to have, and also a large supply of empty half-pound boxes, but none that were filled. Five young lady clerks were on duty and I was the only prospective customer in the store. But I could not buy a half-pound box of candy. I could buy the candy delivered to me in a sack. I could not buy a box. They could not put the candy in a box and sell it to me. They could send to some place a mile or more away and have a girl at that place put half a pound of candy into a half-pound box, and then sell it to me if I could wait an hour. A law, not passed by congress but created by executive decree, made it unlawful for those clerks to put candy in a box. We are today regulated by some 40,000 such executive decrees. That is our modern bureaucratic democracy.

THERE IS NO SUCH THING as a British empire. There is a British Commonwealth of Nations. Each is free and independent of the other, with the English king as head of each state, and he is but a symbol, with no actual authority. It is all seemingly simple, yet not easily understood.

TO BE A GOOD LISTENER may be a greater asset than to be a continuous talker.

FOOD RATIONING

CANADA is at war, as is the United States. We are fighting the same enemies. Canada is a food-producing nation, as is the United States. Canada is helping to provide food for England and the Allied armies. Canada has been at war more than two years longer than we have. Canada has not found a food rationing system necessary. She has depended upon the patriotism and good sense of her citizens, as we did in World War I, and it has worked.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building
Washington, D. C.

Back in the summer of 1940, I sat in a chair under a whispering tree and looked out over a wide and barbed lawn. The mountains were about us. We were resting in a nest carved out of the wilderness and equipped with all the luxuries that a pampered human could demand. Lovely, indolent women in sports dresses sat at tables under colored umbrellas. Handsome, indolent youths in blazers lolled beside them. Negro servants padded about with tall, cooling and expensive drinks.

I call it a "nest." I belonged there just like a cuckoo but I enjoyed it. It was all right. It helped circulate the money (I was a guest at a bankers' convention). But I thought back. Six months before I had ridden in an army transport plane over shuddering Europe. I looked about and saw the easy, harmless but useless life about me, made possible by the easy harvesting of America's riches.

I sighed (a little enviously) and said to myself: "This can't last."

It is a strange coincidence that today, at this very same spot, representatives of the United Nations are gathering to try to write the prescription for the third freedom—freedom from want.

This gathering isn't concerned with summer resorts de luxe although it meets at one. It is concerned with the standard of living all over the globe so that the underfed can produce enough of their handiwork to exchange it for enough to eat—something they just never had before.

It is just too big for me to grasp, but what a heaven for, asks Browning, if our reach doesn't exceed our grasp?

World Council

This plan envisions an international council at the head of a system of administrative bodies among which would be an agricultural council, supported by an agricultural bank (all this international) which would direct groups studying and applying nutrition standards, directing the supply of products, storing surpluses, shifting crops to balance supply and demand, maintaining ever-normal storehouses of non-perishable crops, adjusting processing of perishable crops, developing new markets, taking care of relief in devastated or stricken areas, advising and assisting the poorer population groups to increase their efficiency and consumption.

In other words, these people who have spent hours and months and devoted arduous labor to working out this idea are trying to furnish the plan for economic machinery to hold up the hands of the political effort of a league of nations, new style—the bone and sinew, the bread and beef to feed a society of nations joined together under one political umbrella of world co-operation.

Such an idea is laughed out of court in advance by the folk who talk of crazy dreamers, impractical long-hairs and the like. Maybe it is impossible. But a lot of people are saying: "Well, for heaven's sake, let's try it, let's try anything—nothing can cost more in blood, sweat and dollars than war."

The United States proved a lot of things were possible under the sharp lash of war which would have been sneered into oblivion if they had been blueprinted before Pearl Harbor.

Take an egg, for example. Nothing up our sleeves. Just an egg. "Before the war," says Frank Wilson of the department of commerce, "when Biddy, the hen, laid an egg in Cole county, Missouri, her subsequent cackle of satisfaction was based on the anticipation that that egg might get as far as Sedalia, St. Louis or, on rare occasions, New York."

Then Hitler dreamed up a world war and somebody dreamed up a thing called lend-lease. Today, Biddy's product goes around the world.

Dehydration

Scientists invented dehydration and the process, as far as eggs are concerned, is only a year and a half old. Before the war, only 20 firms dried eggs to any extent and most of those dried albumen only. Today, according to Mr. Wilson, 130 egg-drying plants, big ones, mostly scattered through the Middle West, are drying eggs. Wilson predicts that before the war is over, 35 per cent of America's three billion dozens of eggs will be treated for processing annually.

And so the fragile egg, formerly shipped only short distances, can travel anywhere. How great the American market for dehydrated eggs will be depends on to what extent the consumer takes to the idea, undoubtedly world consumption will increase because of the excellent lend-lease sampling and the ease of shipment.

You may not be able to deliver your quart of milk from the Wisconsin milk shed to the Hottentot's front porch but you can get your dried milk or dehydrated eggs there—if you can adjust things so the Hottentot can produce enough to trade for what you have to sell. This applies to many other products. At present, if everybody could buy them, all the shirts made in peacetime wouldn't produce a shirt and a half per back.

It's the old story right down the line—we can invent the machinery to make anything. We are away behind in our inventions to improve the human lot. It's no harder but it takes more imagination. You can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink, they say. The problem with humans is different. You've got the hungry man and the table and the food, but so far you haven't been able to fix things so you can lead him to it.

Russ-Jap Friendship—And American Ships

On May 7, Washington had the first official explanation of the many bombings of the Jap-held Aleutian island of Kiska. It said: "United States air forces have established military positions, including an airfield on Amchitka and have been in occupation of this island since January."

The same day, the Associated Press sent out a dispatch dated "February 16 (delayed)." I might say, "I'll say it was delayed."

It began this way: "Despite a series of eight Japanese bombing raids, this American airbase, only a few minutes flight from Kiska island went into operation today."

I quote all this to show what a highly confidential war we are running. By the time this sees print—perhaps while I'm writing these lines—Kiska may be in American hands after a land invasion which it is admitted is the only way we can out the enemy from this spot.

If the Japs have gone by the time you read this, there will be a sigh of at least partial regret in some quarters. The reason is this. As long as the Japs are on an island like Kiska (or Guadalcanal) more Japs have to try to reach them, to bring them supplies and keep them alive. And while that goes on, the Americans have a chance to keep enemy wounds open. Japs themselves are expendable. They are cheap, the sun god has a lot of them and he's generous in spending them. But he hasn't so many ships or so many supplies. So killing Japs doesn't bother the Mikado nearly as much as sinking his ships.

That is one reason the upturning of the last Jap toes on any of their stolen, far-flung bases will be a source of at least partial regret.

There is another reason. Day in and day out, from Vancouver and Seattle, secret ships, loaded with supplies for our Russian ally have been calmly sailing away past the Jap-held Kiska and Attu, under the Japanese guns in the narrow waters that lead to Vladivostok.

Now that was a little matter approved by Russia and Japan who hate and fear each other privately but officially are "friendly nations." The question arises now: When and if we trounce the little men out of the stronghold they have dug with their fingernails in the rocky Attu and Kiska, will they be as willing to let us keep on shipping supplies to Russia?

Perhaps it doesn't matter. By that time, which may be now, the situation may have changed. The interesting thing is that the situation does change and thanks to the censorship, nobody knows it until the knowledge ceases to be aid and comfort to the enemy.

But it's tough on a newsmen.

Victory gardeners planning to cultivate plots away from their homes will be eligible for extra rations of gasoline this summer, if they can show need for extra mileage, the OPA has announced.

In 1918, American war expenditures were only 18½ billion dollars—in 1943, they will exceed 100 billion dollars.

A German seamstress was sentenced to six months imprisonment when she answered an advertisement and demanded her pay in eggs and dairy products instead of money, according to a Nazi press report received by the Office of War Information. When the girl was refused, the report said, she left saying that she had enough customers who would comply with such demands.

BEHAVIOR TREATMENT

One of the difficulties about the treatment of behavior symptoms by the use of insulin or metrazol is that some patients who have undergone this method, or have spoken to patients who have done so, are somewhat afraid of it, notwithstanding that they have experienced or observed its helpful results. It is for this and other reasons that many physicians are now using the electrically induced convulsions in cases where the mental symptoms are not due to any true or organic disease of the brain. I have spoken twice before about this method and in the Illinois Medical Journal, Dr. J. V. Edlin, Chicago, reports the use of electric shock treatment in 126 cases.

The length of time the patients suffered with their symptoms ranged from less than six months to 10 years, and included all the functional psychoses such as anxieties, fears, dream states and melancholia.

Of the patients who were ill for less than six months, about 53 per cent recovered; the rate for those ill from six months to one year was about 31 per cent; for those ill from one to five years it was 21 per cent, and for those ill from 6 to 10 years it was 20 per cent.

The best results were obtained by patients suffering from involuntarily melancholia (depressed feeling of middle and old age). The next best occurred in patients with catatonia (where dream state passes into melancholia) and then those with hebephrenia (silliness which comes on at puberty) and dementia precox combined with hebephrenic and catatonic features.

Dr. Edlin found that just as with insulin and metrazol the symptoms before receiving electric shock treatment determined the chances of his recovery; the shorter the time, the better the chances. Dr. Edlin prefers electrical to metrazol treatment because of the high percentage of recoveries and the almost total absence of fear. He also advises that the usual treatment of mental cases by questioning the patient and explaining the causes of the symptoms should be used in addition to the electric shock treatment.

X-Ray Treatment of Goiter Beneficial

In examining recruits for the last war we were always on the alert so that cases of early thyroid disease (goiter) were not accepted. When the heartbeat was fast the recruit rested for some time and was given a daily paper to read. If his heartbeat was slower after the rest and he was fit otherwise he was accepted. In some cases where, in addition to the rapid heartbeat, there was trembling of the hands and eyes were bulging he was considered a thyroid case and rejected at once.

The cause of the symptoms is that too much juice or extract is being manufactured by the thyroid gland and this juice increases the rate at which all the body processes work. The amount of increase is measured by a special apparatus and if it is plus 15 or more it is considered a case of early goiter, hyperthyroid as it is called. If test shows minus 15 it shows that the thyroid gland is not manufacturing enough juice.

When too much juice is being manufactured, all or part of the thyroid gland is removed by operation or by the use of X-ray treatments. If not enough juice is being manufactured the physician prescribes daily doses of the juice or thyroid extract.

Before treatment for removal of the thyroid gland is given, Dr. George E. Pfahler, professor of radiology, graduate school of medicine, University of Pennsylvania, in medical clinics of North America, states that the cause or causes of the hyperthyroid condition should be removed insofar as this is possible. Usual causes are focal infection (teeth, tonsils or other organ), domestic difficulties, worry, overwork or some other strain.

As many patients fear operation and delay should be avoided, Dr. Pfahler points out that X-ray treatment gives about as good end results as surgery and these patients will more willingly undergo the X-ray method of treatment. Where, however, the need for the removal of the thyroid gland is urgent surgery is the proper treatment.

HEALTH BRIEFS

Q.—Is low blood pressure a disease?
A.—Low blood pressure is not a disease; it is a sign that something is wrong—thin blood, infection of teeth, etc. The treatment your doctor is giving you should build you up while finding the cause of low blood pressure.
Q.—What is the result of continuous use of phenobarbital?
A.—Phenobarbital as prescribed by your physician is safe to use.

Attractive Lines

MY, BUT the housework will seem like nothing at all when you're wearing this attractive frock. It has such good lines that you will probably want to drop what you're doing at the moment and get right down to making yourself several. Sew and Save.

Pattern No. 8367 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes, with short sleeves, 4 yards 35-inch material; 8 yards braid trimming.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

If you find fruit jars difficult to get clean after cold packing corn or meat, rub the jar with salt and wash in the usual way.

If your family considers squash a tasteless vegetable, try serving it with a white sauce with melted cheese in it. They will change their minds.

Put a sponge in the bottom of your potted plants and you won't have to water them so often.

If too much salt is put in the soup, a few slices of potato will remove it. A raw potato in the refrigerator will absorb unpleasant odors.

Vinegar eliminates odors. Don't put away a frying pan that smells of onions, fish or some other strong-flavored food. Put some vinegar in the pan and bring to a boil. Then wash as usual.

When making berry pies, mix with the fruit measurement for one pie about two tablespoons fine quick-cooking tapioca to make a clear thick juice that should not run out during baking and that will serve neatly.

Baking materials are precious these days, and burning a cake is little short of a tragedy. When putting a cake into the oven set an alarm clock for the time the cake should be finished baking. This is a big help, especially when visitors drop in, and one is apt to forget all about the cake in the oven.

When you see news photos of soldiers "off duty" in camp or behind the battle-lines—notice how often you'll see them smoking a cigarette. There's a good reason for that. Army officials say that cigarettes are an appreciable factor in maintaining morale—and the soldiers themselves add that a carton of cigarettes from home is always welcome. What brand? Well, sales records in Post Exchanges and Canteens show that Camels are the favorite cigarette with men in all the services. Though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S. and to Sailors, Marines, and Coast Guardsmen wherever they are.—Adv.

ON THE HOME FRONT

with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

BAY windows are much in vogue again. One reason for this is that modern methods of hanging curtains make bay windows more attractive than they used to be in the Gay Nineties when they were a feature of so many houses.

In those old houses the vertical lines of woodwork and wall showing between windows made the bay seem like a coop stuck on the outside of the house. Many home owners had the bays removed because, while they actually added space, they made rooms seem small and cluttered.

Today curtains are hung to cover both wall and woodwork around the individual windows in the bay. This brings the group of windows together as a unit and makes the bay seem a broad and spacious part of the room. The sketch at the right shows a standard fixture that allows curtains to extend beyond the window frame; but don't

Blind Enabled to Weigh Articles on Audio-Scale

A new instrument known as the "audio-scale," which enables the blind to weigh even small articles accurately by sound, has been demonstrated at the American Federation for the Blind.

The idea was suggested by Miss Evelyn Watson, a blind woman. The instrument, which can be attached to any type of weighing machine, operates on the aerophone radio beam principle, giving out a different note for each different weight. It will open many new fields for the blind in war industries.

An Idea or Two

There are selfish people in every community.

Put no faith in a liar, no matter what you hear.

Giving until it hurts sometimes applies to the recipient too.

Jealousy and envy affect nations, as well as men and women.

Advertise your business any way you want to, but advertise it.

Maybe we ought to let a committee of senators run the entire war.

The only way to get business is to go after it and keep going after it.

Many who flee from evil do not understand that it is in their hearts.

Buy war bonds and make your money count on your side of the war.

Who will represent Morgan county at Frankfort in the next legislature?

It is not necessary for a good politician to be a liar, but many of them are.

Advertising works for intelligent users, regardless of the state of business.

A lot of "experts" are talking about things they don't know much about.

Corporal Hitler's military "genius" consisted of having more men and material.

The victory gardens are not causing as many smiles as they did when first announced.

Men who measure their progress by that of other men usually go a short distance.

The people who take their work seriously are the ones who have the permanent jobs.

Children would probably be much better if they didn't have to associate with older people.

Religion is a great help in time of trouble, but you must have religion if you expect the help.

There are Americans who doubt our ability to take care of ourselves in international affairs.

Readers' Opinions

Letters for this column should be brief and to the point. Lengthy articles may be cut down at the discretion of the editor. Writers must sign their own names for the information of the editor, but letters will be published over pen names when so desired and requested by the writers.

A prize of six months' subscription is being given for the best letter each week, limited to 200 words or less. Prize letter this week is the first one printed below.

"HARD TO CATCH"

Cannel City, Ky., May 24
Editor Courier:

I notice in last week's issue of the Courier a letter from my brother, P. M. Benton of Batavia, in regard to Morgan county's indebtedness, and to pass the hat around and he would drop $25 into it.

I'm inclined to think he means just what he says, and if the officials of Morgan county will convince him that others too will help, let them try him out.

I'm now nearing the 61st milepost of my life's journey, and when I was very small, I might add, pulling to my mother's apron strings, I remember hearing the older ones discussing our county's debt. Say the hat was passed around and $25,000 was dropped into it, what would it amount to in a small course of time?

There are too many big fish in the stream and the little ones can't survive. Our honorable county judge, I believe, is doing his best to try to catch some of the big fish, but they are slick and hard to catch.

DEEDS CAN ANSWER

Ezel, Ky., May 23, 1943
Editor Courier:

This is our America. We are all proud to call America "our country," and rightfully so.

War always is an ugly affair. Germany and Japan are not only waging a military war, not only thirsting for victories in the field, their plans go further to dictate peace to us here in America.

The news of the execution by the Japs of some of our American air men who fell into Japanese hands after bombing Tokyo has been received with horror.

Americans will never be reconciled to cold blooded murder. These gory crimes cry for vengeance for the barbarous murders committed by the Japs.

Our angry words don't hurt our enemies. Our deeds, hard and relentless, can answer the murder of American fliers who fell into Japanese hands.

We are familiar with Germany's history. The acts of aggression committed by Germany, for which there are no justifications whatever, have deeply shocked the conscience of the world. Our cause, which is the cause of right, cannot be vanquished. Germany has forsaken her most sacred pledges.

Americans owe an obligation of blood to unite, to sacrifice, and to work, as we have never before, until our heroic dead are avenged and the shameless militarism of the axis powers is blotted from the earth.

Let's make it more truly our country by investing our money in its future. MRS. VIVIAN CENTERS

BROTHERLY ADVICE

The following letter was received recently by Elwood Allen from his half brother, Wm. Joseph Johnson, who is in naval training at Great Lakes, Ill.

Dear Woodie:

You were so kind as to write me, so I will return the favor. I hadn't thought about you writing me.

Since you have written, let me tell you something. If you want to get along in this world and amount to something, if you want to be somebody when you grow up, always be sure to do what mother tells you.

Even tho you may not like some of the things she asks you to do, she is always right. She will never guide you wrong.

Be sure you never drink or gamble or associate with boys who do. It is sure to get you into trouble if you do. And in the long run, even the penitentiary.

Always take any advice mother may give you and when you grow up you will thank her for it. And another thing, be sure you always go to church and Sunday school.

Well, so much for that. Just keep in mind the things I have told you and don't fail to heed them.

You wanted to know how I'm getting along. Well, I'm getting along just fine, except for one thing, and that is I don't get to see any girls. But I guess I will have to get used to that.

I'll bet I know more military steps now than you do. I didn't realize it would be so hard to learn to march but it is. There are so many different things to know and do.

I forgot to tell mother where I go swimming. They have an inside pool in which we go swimming. So long. JOSEPH

LEAVES FOR "EAST"

Fillmore, Calif., May 21
Editor Courier:

Allow me to express my thanks to my many friends and cousins who gave me such a wonderful shower of letters and cards. I am leaving here now for the east; will visit my son in Texas, who is in the air school and expects to be shipped out soon, then I shall go on to my sisters for a long visit. So please forward the paper and all letters to R. 3, De Queen, Arkansas.

A SOLDIER'S PLEA

When I don my "suit" and cross the seas

To fight the Germans and Japanese, Don't say I went with a head cast down, Wearing a cynical draftee's frown. Don't say I tried to die of gout Or turned a "farmer" that I might Just say I went with my head tossed high, With a gallant twinkle in my eye; And say of me—I am sure you can— That I marched to the army just like a man.

And if the battlefield claims my dust, Just say that in God I put my trust. Please say that I tried at every shot To kill a Jap or a German "soot." Say that I let no chance go by To keep my country's banner high; And don't forget to say, if you can, That I died a-fighting just like a man. NANCY P. TURNER

There has been a big excitement in this community for the past few days. Thursday of last week as Miss Imogene Dunn went to the poultry lot a strange man there grabbed her arm and threw her down and threatened her life. There have been all the law and officers and neighbors, near 50 or 60 men, in search for the man, but unable to find him.

Miss Imogene Dunn spent the week end with her uncle, W. G. Ratliff, at West Liberty.

Mrs. Leborn Phipps visited her husband, Leborn Phipps, at Fleming recently.

Rev. T. J. Burton filled his regular appointment at Johnson Saturday and Sunday.

Ratliff Dunn of Morehead visited his parents here over the week end.

Mrs. Boyd Mason of Fleming is visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Lykins, a few days.

This week end is Memorial day, to remember and show respect to the dead. This date is remembered far and near. Let us not forget to remember the living as well—the dear boys who now work and fight and give their dear lives for our country. Let us remember them in prayer. Buy war bonds and stamps. Save on food and be very thankful we can get food with ration stamps instead of frowning and grumbling.

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER

By DR. BOB JONES, Sr., Founder of BOB JONES COLLEGE, Cleveland, Tenn.

The devil asked Eve in so many words if God had spoken and what God had said. Eve answered that God had spoken but she added to what God had said. God told her she must not eat the fruit of a certain tree. Eve added to this, "We must not even touch the tree." This God never said. The tendency of human nature has always been either to add to or take from the things that God has said. We read in the book of Revelation that the man who adds to what God has said in the book will have added to him the curses set forth in the book. It also teaches that the man who takes from what God says will have taken from him the rewards which God offers. There is nothing to be added to what God says and there is nothing to be taken from what He says. Jesus said, "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away."

"Modernism" either denies that God has spoken or endeavors to take from the things in the Bible, which book orthodox Christians believe came from God, by saying that certain things are human statements and not divine statements. If the Bible is not revelation of the will of God to men, then there is no revelation of God's will. It is the only book that ever was written that speaks with absolute authority about the will of God. The heavens declare His glory. But the Bible declares His will as well as His glory. There is a great day of judgment coming for these modernistic preachers and modernistic educators who have stolen the faith of many of our young people in the absolute authority of the Bible. The writer has dealt with many people in many parts of the world over a period of many years and he has noted with much interest that the people that the Bible believe in the Bible. These people have a restful heart in the midst of this chaotic world. In the old days the preachers did not always agree about what the Bible said concerning some things that separated them denominationally. But all of these oldtime preachers believed that whatever the Bible said was so. Modern controversy is not about interpretation. It is about the authority of the Book.

"Has God spoken?" According to the first two verses of the first chapter of Hebrews, God has spoken in the past at "sundry times and in divers manners." He spoke in times past to our fathers by the prophets. He has in the last days spoken to us by His Son. The Bible is the written Word of God. The Lord Jesus Christ is the living Word of God. We are exhorted in the Bible to search the Scriptures not to see if we can find something wrong with the Scriptures but in order that we may find Jesus in the Scriptures. The man who searches the Scripture to find Jesus will find Him everywhere in the book. He will find Him in Genesis in the council halls of eternity with the Father and the Holy Spirit planning the creation of man. He will find Him in Genesis after man fell. He will find Him in the first prophecy, "The seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head." He will find Him in Job as a Mediator between God and man. He will find Him in Isaiah as the virginborn Son of God, wounded for our iniquities. He will find Him in the Songs of Solomon. He will find Him as the prophets point their prophetic fingers to the coming One Who is without form and comeliness and yet Who is also King of kings and Lord of lords. He will find Him in Revelation on His way back to earth to reign and to put down all His enemies. He will find Him up in heaven where the heavenly choir is singing "Holy, Holy, Holy," and the redeemed out of every kindred and people and tongue and tribe and nation are singing a hymn about His blood that cleansed them from their sin. Yes, we search the Scripture, the written Word, we will always find the Living Word, for God has spoken thru His Word and thru His Son.

SOLDIERS ON THE TRANSPORTATION FRONT

MANY men and women of Greyhound's family are performing an essential service for our country. Count among these, Greyhound Information Clerks, Telephone Operators and Baggage Men. They've taken over a big share of a big job—and are going about it with a zeal that makes us proud. Day in and day out these fellow workers demonstrate the real spirit of our forces—the spirit that nothing is so important as keeping essential wartime travelers correctly informed and on the move—keeping service at the peak with no let-down on courtesy or cooperation.

Greyhound, along with numbers of our patrons, know and appreciate the quality of their efforts. They deserve and receive full credit for a major part in Greyhound's contribution to vital wartime transportation.

SOUTHEASTERN GREYHOUND LINES

ACE IN THE HOLE

by JACKSON GREGORY

WILL RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: Ann Lee and Cole Cody, beneficiaries under two identical wills of Old Bill Cole, sought to discover who had fired the fatal bullet at Old Bill. Suspicion centered around Rance Waldron, who was living at the ranch when Ann and Cody arrived. Doc Joe and the Judge, commissioned by Old Bill to carry out his last wishes, were returning to town from the ranch (each with a will for safekeeping) when they were held up by a masked bandit whom they recognized as Rance Waldron. To divert suspicion Rance then killed his accomplice, Tom Gough. Cal Roundtree, foreman of the ranch, learned meanwhile that Doc Joe still lived.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER XVII

Doc Joe pulled up the chair close to the bed and spoke softly, throttling his voice down to a near-whisper.

"For one thing, I ain't dead now, never was and don't intend to be for a spell yet," he said. "Get that in your head, Cal. Don't go thinking ghosts."

"You don't look anything like what I might suppose a ghost would look," Cal said curtly. "Now, let's get after this: What in the name of blazes were you playing dead for?"

"For a spell, I had to," said Doc Joe. "If I hadn't, Rance Waldron would have killed me sure, like he did the Judge and Tom Gough. He nixed me side of the head." He put his finger gingerly to a bit of taped gauze over his temple. "I sort of dazed me. I lay on my side and saw him step over to the Judge. He shot the Judge between the horns before I could wiggle a finger. Then he looked at me. Maybe I sort of fainted a minute; I don't quite know or recollect. I was scared enough to faint anyhow. He came back dragging Tom Gough. He shot Gough twice and rode away. I tried to get up. I got dizzy and sure did faint for good. When I woke up and the boys hauled us into town, I was out cold. They thought I was dead. Me, I got to thinking. I let 'em keep on thinking so. Nobody knows but Doc Evans; you and him, now, Cal. And you're both going to keep your mouths shut until I give the word."

"Rance Waldron is downstairs right now," said Cal, stubborn and eager. "He killed the Judge, you says. And you saw him? And it's almost a dead certainty that either him or his hired hand, Tom Gough, potted old Early Bill!"

"Shut up and sit down and keep your shirt tail tucked in! Now, listen. The Judge and me, we had those two wills that old Jackass Bill Cole drew up. And Mr. Rance Waldron's got 'em now."

And now Cal Roundtree, telling this to Cole Cody as the two jogged along, came to a halt. Then he began to swear explosively. And in the end, grown quiet after his struggle with himself, he muttered disgustedly.

"Cody, I don't know which end I'm standing on. There's something I know that I got to keep under my hat, like I been doing; I almost blew my top off and let the cat jump with old Doc Joe; I'm near doing the same thing with you."

"Why not, Cal?" said Cody quietly. "You and I haven't known each other all summer, but—what's on your mind, old timer?"

"No," Cal growled. "Let me be. Let me go on now and tell you the rest that I can; what old Doc Joe has got in his mind. He says Rance Waldron is smart like a whole herd of foxes; he says, no, Waldron won't destroy those wills right off; he says Waldron will play safe, and hide 'em darn good, where the devil himself can't find 'em, until he sees for sure which way the wind blows. What he says, is this: Waldron will try to gobble the King Cole Ranch and anything else left hanging. If he makes a go of it, he'll burn the papers. If there's any slip-up along the trail, well then, with the two wills in his war bag, he can dicker."

After a long while Cody asked, "What does Doc Joe plan? How long is he going to play dead?"

That started Cal Roundtree off again. But he got himself in hand ultimately and explained some part of Doc Joe's plan.

"Late tonight the other doc, Parke Evans, will find a paper in Doc's room, signed by Doc Joe himself, dated a couple of years ago, saying when he's dead he yearns to be packed up and shipped back to his boyhood's home which is in dear old Tennessee!" Cal spat far into space.

"So Doc Evans will pack him in a box, and haul him off with him tomorrow, going back to Rim Rock, and to the railroad at Christmas Forks. They'll ship some sort of a bundle and Doc Joe will hide out for a spell with Doc Evans. Later he'll get a chance to creep back this-away by the dark of the moon. Meantime we're to watch and wait for Rance Waldron to be making his play."

Arrived at the ranch they unsaddled, cared for their horses and said good-night, Cal to turn in at the bunk house and no doubt tilt his bottle to a long gurgie, Cole Cody hastening up the slope to the ranch house.

In the starlit patio he came upon Porfirio lounging on a bench, waiting for him. Porfirio's glowing cigarette described a quick, small arc in the gloom as Porfirio came to his feet.

"I'll see you in the morning, Porfirio—"

"But wait!" exclaimed Porfirio excitedly.

"What the deuce is it?" muttered Cody, stooping to see better. "Not a dead cat, is it? Somebody's old black tom—A hat!"

Cody led the way into the living room; while he was lighting a lamp Porfirio explained how his persistence had brought him to his discovery. From the place where the man had hidden when he shot Early Bill, Porfirio on horseback had ridden a score of times, following each time a slightly different path, thinking, Now if it was me, and I was riding like the wind, I'd go this way; thinking, And I would get rid of that hat mury pronto. And he had looked at all the possible hiding places, had looked even for signs of a small hot fire. And then at last his keen eyes had seen a stick, a small dead pine limb, its end sticking out from under a sizable boulder!

Aha! He had it! For how could a stick get itself shoved under a rock like that? If a man had moved that rock now, and had been in a hurry settling it back, and in a hurry to ride on, he might with a careless boot have kicked that stick where it got caught under the stone! Porfirio sweated over the boulder, moving it—and found the hat.

Yes, there was a bullet hole drilled through it. There was more. There was everything; Cole Cody could only regret that its message came too late. In the sweat band were the initials, tooled through the leather, "T.G."

He put his hands on hers; she permitted the contact for a long moment.

"Tom Gough, that's who it was, Porfirio," he said as he tossed the hat, now of no interest, to the table. "But Rance Waldron—Look, Porfirio, Tom Gough is dead all ready. He's the stick-up gent that fought it out with the Judge and Doc Joe."

Porfirio began cursing softly in the tongue of the south. He started to the door; he said good night suddenly—Then of a sudden he whirled and cried out "Dead, the cabrone! And so he gets away from me like that, does he, Don Codito?" He laughed, and it was an evil sound when Porfirio Lopez laughed that way.

Cody, not yet of any mind for bed and sleep, started a quick blaze in the fireplace and dragged a big comfortable chair in front of it. Sunk deep into Early Bill's pet chair, rolling what he thought was to be a good night cigarette, he did not hear a door open and close softly, nor did he hear light oncoming steps. What he heard first was a subdued voice saying,

"Hello, Cole Cody. Mind if I join you and the fire a minute? I can't sleep—can you?"

He rose and drew up a companion chair; the young firelight, catching at a stick of pitch-pine, flared up and shone brightly on his face and little Ann Lee's as they stood a moment looking seriously at each other; it shone in their eyes and made them bright.

"Ann Lee," he said after a while. "What is it, Cole?" she asked. Both their voices were quiet, hers hushed.

"You realize by this time, don't you, that there's not a chance in the world of either you or me ever coming to own any part of the King Cole Ranch?"

"Yes," she spoke very simply, not seeming or sounding in the least concerned; scarcely interested. He heard her long, quivering sigh before she added, "Maybe it's funny, but I don't seem to care any more. After what has just happened—those two dear old men—"

Darn your hide, Doc Joe! It was hard for Bill Cole Cody to keep from violating Cal's confidence, just as it had been a man's job for Cal to keep from blurring out something else he knew, something he felt bound to keep to himself.

Little by little, out of these drifting silences, they fell to talking briefly and sketchily about each other, about themselves.

They laughed a little together, and came closer each other than ever before, when they started to speak at the same instant and with the same thought:

"Why, your father and mine, too, must have been great friends!"

Cody made himself another cigarette and, instead of smoking it or even remembering that he had made it to smoke, sat rolling and rolling it with his lean, strong fingers.

He said without looking up, "I could almost be glad—in a way, I would be glad if it wasn't that Rance Waldron might come to profit by it—that those two wills are, anyhow for the present and maybe for good, out of the picture. All we've done, maybe all we'd ever do, is fight like cat and dog over the darned place! Maybe now—well, maybe we can get along without fighting! It might be fun for a change, Ann Lee?"

"I'm a beast most of the time, I'm afraid," she said contritely. "And I try so hard not to be! Honestly, Bill Cole Cody, I try terribly hard."

He put his hand on hers; she permitted the contact for a long moment, then gently slid her fingers out from under his and, palm upward, let them curl again on her lap.

"I guess I shouldn't have spanked you—so hard, anyhow!"

"I deserved every bit of it—and harder!" But he saw that the hot color in her cheeks now was not altogether the affair of the fire.

"And I guess I oughtn't to have kissed you on the stage—the way I did!"

"Let's not quarrel any more, ever," she said hurriedly. She lifted her eyes to his. "We have been friends, in a way, haven't we? We do like each other, even after all that's happened; I know we do."

He said soberly, "You're being mighty sweet, Ann Lee. I never knew a girl like you!"

"I love fireplaces! One like this; look how the coals are forming now! Do you like to find pictures in them? Of course, everybody does. The fireplace is one of the things that makes me love this room."

She stirred slightly and sighed; she moved her arms, crossing them, her hands on her shoulders, giving herself a little hug; she said, "Dear old Early Bill, he did try, didn't he? Tried so hard to 'have him his fun' and at the same time to do something splendid for you and me, for his old friends son and daughter. Well, I've a tiny fireplace all my own at home, and when I go back to teaching—"

"Ann! What are you talking about? You haven't forgotten, have you, the money he left for us in the bank, fifty-fifty? We know that Buck-tooth Jenkins got that ten thousand into the pot; you heard the Judge say there was a whole lot more! And you talking about teaching!"

"Honestly, cross my heart and hope to die," she exclaimed, "I had forgotten all about that part of it! Why, there are thousands and thousands there, all yours and mine!"

Aunt Jennifer cleared her throat considerably in the far, dim end of the long room.

"Mind if I come in, you two?" she asked, and came straight ahead. "I'm close to getting the Jim-Jams, all alone in my room. And I got to thinking about a pot of coffee and—two fighting again?"

Cody gave her his chair, squatted on the corner of the hearth and started a fresh cigarette. Ann Lee began to laugh.

And thus began on the King Cole Ranch a short period of time into which entered many a pleasant moment, with moments of quiet peace, moments of spontaneous happiness, flitting all too swiftly because always the shadow came back, moments when Ann Lee surprised a look in Bill Cole Cody's which he did not know was there, which no other girl had ever put there; and times when he, trying to read what lay in her mind, what she felt deep down in her heart even, dreamed his dreams.

They rode together hours on end, memorizing the lovely details of the vast King Cole Ranch. Once Ann Lee, as they came to the crest of a rise of land from which they could look for miles across a glory of undulating panorama, exclaimed breathlessly, "Oh, Cole! If this really could be ours!" And he repeated within himself, not looking at her but into the furthest blue distance, his jaw hard and his eyes narrowed, "Ours!"

And his thoughts switched swiftly, as so often they did, to the vanished Rance Waldron. For since that night in Bald Eagle, none at the ranch had seen or heard of him. Rance Waldron had simply faded out of the picture, leaving no inkling of where he had gone or why or for how long. And so the days drifted by, with summer ripening, and Cole Cody and Ann Lee with Aunt Jennifer lingered on.

PETER'S COUNSEL TO SCATTERED CHRISTIANS

LESSON TEXT—I Peter 1:1; 2:11-25.
GOLDEN TEXT—Honor all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honor the king.—I Peter 2:17.

Persecution for Christ's sake has been the lot of believers from the first century down to 1943. Sometimes it has been official, but more often unofficial, yet nonetheless severe and trying.

The manner in which Christians face their difficulties is one of the best testimonies to the reality of their professed faith. Sometimes, however, in the midst of their trials the enemy of their souls brings discouragement—and then they need the counsel and encouragement of others.

Such was the situation when Peter addressed his first epistle to the early believers who were scattered abroad (1:1). His counsel was just what they needed, and is equally helpful to us. They were to be

I. Separated As Pilgrims (1:1; 2:11, 12).

Christians are in this world but not of it. They are passing through, wayfarers on their way to the eternal dwelling place of God. That does not mean that they are not interested in the welfare of those round about them, or delinquent in sharing the responsibilities of life, but it does mean that they are to have the pilgrim's detachment from the things of the world and the flesh.

In the days of Peter, membership in the church was not considered a normal or respectable thing. It marked a person as belonging to a hated sect, one which was falsely accused of many evil deeds. For example, Christians met at night, men and women together for communion service. Because they spoke of this as a "love feast," they were accused of immorality. And because they spoke of the body and blood of Christ they were said to be eaters of human flesh.

Christians must meet such malicious reports. How? By silencing their accusers by their good works.

II. Submissive As Citizens (2:13-18).

One of the hallmarks of Christian character is willing and gracious recognition of proper authority, whether it be in the state, in the place of employment, in the school, or in the home. He does this for the Lord's sake (v. 13), and even when that authority is in the hands of an unreasonable man.

This does not mean that the Christian is to encourage or countenance tyranny and oppression, but that he is loyal to the state and to his employer, even though the present representative be a hard, unjust man. In all well ordered society there will be proper and effective means to correct injustice. But in an age when that authority is in the hands of an unreasonable man.

Observe that government, in the plan of God, is for the purpose of keeping order, encouraging the good, and punishing the evil (vv. 13, 14). The powerful influence of the Christian Church should keep it in that right channel, or bring it back if it has strayed. Always loyal and obedient, the believer should use his ballot and his personal influence to establish and support good government.

III. Suffering As Christians (2:19-25).

Christ is our "example" (v. 21). Since some have interpreted this word and the statement "that ye should follow in his steps" as indicating that we are saved by our imitation of Christ, it is well to point out that this would be quite impossible. We would have to begin where He began—He was without sin (v. 22). But we have all "sinned and come short of the glory of God" (Rom. 3:23). We need a Saviour—not an example as far as redemption is concerned.

In the ever present problem of suffering, we as redeemed ones do have Christ as our example. He who was sinless and without fault bore the shame and suffering of Calvary without complaint. When He was reviled He did not retaliate, when He was hurt He did not threaten revenge (vv. 22, 23), but was willing to leave the ultimate judgment in the hands of God, who will have the final word.

We ought to do the same when we suffer for Christ's sake. If we suffer because of our own sin or folly, we can claim no credit for bearing it patiently (v. 20). But when we have done well and then are persecuted, we have opportunity to show whether our profession of being followers of Christ really means anything. At this point some Christians lose their testimony and influence by a bitter, vengeful spirit.

These are trying days for the souls of men. In many parts of the world Christians are forced to drink the bitter cup of persecution. To the glory of God we record the fact that they are doing it heroically and in a true Christian spirit.

Smart Hats Are Being Made of Seersucker and Other Cottons

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THAT gingham, chintz, chambray, pique and other cottons are being made up in utilitarian dresses, blouses, pinafores and sunbonnets is no news, but gingham, chintz, chambray, seersucker, and a host of other cottons are also being made up into the choicest of millinery confections—'tis news that's big news.

This use of humble cottons by milliners is about the most exciting thing that is happening in the fashion world today. Add to this program of cottons for hats the fact that gloves, bags and neckwear are made of the same materials, and you will agree that these new and unusual ensembles are adding a thrilling chapter to the current style story. The smart postillion made of glazed chintz shown to the left below proves that neither chintz nor, for that matter, any other cotton, from henceforth can be regarded as belonging exclusively to the decorator or to the designers of housecoats and pinafores as we have been led to believe. This most amazing hat, trimmed with flowers as you see and adding long gloves to point up the costume, certainly marks the dawn of a new era when it comes to the use of smart cottons.

Another cotton designed to go to your head is simple, ordinary seersucker. When plaid cotton seersucker appears as a stovepipe hat flaunting a matching ascot as shown centered above one begins to sense what we have been missing all these years in failing to recognize the style possibilities that exist in wash fabrics which up to this season we had thought belonged only to a workaday world.

Look at the adorable bonnet and glove set (lower right) of gay plaid gingham with bands of dainty beading run through with narrow ribbons, and you will have discovered the reason why they are saying in fashion circles that "gingham girls will be belles of the summer season." The long matching gloves complement the bonnet with high drama. Here is a twosome that has charm—plus about it, and to think that simple gingham did it! And, would you believe it, milliners are even using mattress ticking for hats that hold one spell-bound because of their novelty and their air of high-style distinction!

For the neat little postillions and other smart suit hats some milliners are using black, navy or bright colored shantung successfully. A devastating little veil gives the feminine accent.

You are apt to see most remarkable and versatile combinations in the new ensembles, such as cotton plaid hat partnered with a boutonniere made of the same check or perhaps a brooch of calico or gingham, or what have you, with a matching gilet that has a huge bow tie at the throat.

Another cotton that clicks in millinery is white organdy. Loads of organdy frills and pleatings and ruffles are massed on as attractive summer hats as one may ever hope to see. The ensemble idea is carried out with organdy frills on gloves, or perhaps a jabot of the frilled organdy.

Then there's white pique that is being used in effective and versatile ways all through the hat program. Smart, indeed, are pert little pique sailors with pique flowers. Tiny calicos formed of pique petals, with sprightly trimmings of starched pique, also hold interest.

New Dinner Dress

Here is exactly what we are coming to in the way of new-type dinner gowns made of enchanting cottons. The trend in these evening dresses that are made of cottons is to stress simplicity. The best of it is that a frock of this type makes every woman look her prettiest, even though it doesn't cost a lot. This charming dinner gown tops a glazed chintz skirt with a dainty lingerie blouse trimmed with green velvet bands and a bow.

These Items Offer You

Something New in Purses

The white plastic handbag is news. Ask to be shown the various types that go to make up the new collections. Black faillie bags are carried with afternoon dresses, and the pouch types are especially smart, as are intricately worked underarms. There are large briefcases effects in black or brown patent leather designed large enough to carry important papers and reports of those engaged in war work. Shopping bags for women who do their own marketing are made of strong cord crocheted.

White 'Topper' Is Good

From Morning to Night

It does not matter whether your dress be a street-length formal black, or a summery print, a casual wool pastel or a tailored pique, if you wear with it one of the new white "toppers" teamed with a pert little white hat, you will look as if you stepped out of the pages of a fashion magazine. These white toppers of corduroy, or heavy white slipper satin, or flannel are scheduled for a tremendous vogue this summer.

Sleek Lines

Dress designers are working toward a slimmer, sleeker line in dresses and coats as one way of conserving material. The results are all that can be hoped for and then some in the way of chic and grace and charm. The outlook is for refined types adroitly styled with long waistlines, princess effects with shirtings through the midriff, or coat dresses that achieve variety through versatile button fastenings designed to slenderize.

Their Hard Luck

He was one of those fathers who believed in trying to answer any questions put by his son. So he did his best when the youngster asked him:

"What are ancestors, daddy?"

"Well, my boy," he replied, "I'm one of your ancestors, and your grandfather is another."

A puzzled frown marred the child's brow.

"Then, daddy, why do people brag about them?"

FRESH AIR FIEND

The maid at the boarding house went to the landlady with an anxious look.

"I believe the new boarder is going to run off in the night?" she said.

"Why?" asked the landlady, alarmed.

"Because," said the maid, "I heard him say to his friend: 'It's nice to open the window at night and throw one's chest out!'"

Foreign Languages Too

"What! You don't mean that he's a bigamist?"

"No. Joe just got married."

RETORT COURTEOUS

Girl—What are you following me for? Didn't you ever see anyone like me before?

Boy—Yeh, but I had to pay a quarter!

Speed Demon

As they sat reading in the evening cool of the garden the sentimental woman said:

"Here's a wonderful thing, dear. It's about a man who reached the age of fifty without learning even to read and write. Then he met a woman, and for her sake made himself into a scholar in two years."

"That's nothing," grunted her husband. "I knew a man who was a profound scholar at forty. Then he met a woman, and for her sake made a fool of himself in two days!"

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Children Need Good, Wholesome Foods At Their Parties

Simple parties help make children at ease with their friends, do a lot toward laying the foundations for their social success. Watch them enjoy playing host and hostess as this little pair is doing.

How do you rate with your younger generation? Are you content when you keep them clean, get them off to school, and give them some extra tutoring when they need it in English or math?

Yes, that in itself is a big job, and you are doing a big job if you have that part in smooth, running order. Notice, I didn't say whole job, because unless you provide for healthy recreation and play, the child is not getting his rightful share and start in life.

Future Americans must be a social as well as business success to be wholesome and happy. To prepare the child for this, you must provide him with a social and recreational outlet—and that means an occasional party to which to invite younger friends so the child is at ease in his role as host or hostess.

There's a certain excitement at children's parties which easily upsets their tummies, and the best way to handle them is to have nourishing, wholesome food, rather than "partied" dishes which will upset them even more. You'll find co-operation from other mothers if you let them know you will do everything to make her children at ease.

Let your decoration be a bit fussy and party-ish, of course, but keep to the sensible on the food. Have table favors, of course, for this carries out the theme and the children adore it. It stimulates conversation and keeps things going smoothly.

Fresh salmon steaks may be used in making the flaked salmon called for in this recipe. Serve it on small toast rounds and the children will adore it.

- *Salmon Timbales. (Serves 8)
- 4 eggs, slightly beaten
 - 2 cups milk
 - 1 cup bread crumbs
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 2 tablespoons chopped pimento
 - 1 pound salmon, flaked
 - 1 teaspoon paprika
 - 2 tablespoons shortening
 - 1 teaspoon onion juice
 - 8 toast rounds

Parsley Add butter and bread crumbs to hot milk, then stir until all soaked. Add slightly beaten eggs, flaked salmon (steam fresh salmon 8 to 10 minutes, then flake), pimento, salt, paprika and onion juice. Pour into buttered timbale or greased

Lynn Says:

Sandwich Ideas: Cream cheese or cottage cheese with olives and mayonnaise.

Peanut butter, honey and crumbled fresh yeast, on whole wheat or enriched white bread.

Peanut butter and chow chow on enriched white bread.

Cream cheese and orange marmalade on raisin bread.

Mashed liverwurst, chili sauce, mayonnaise on whole wheat or rye bread.

Minced corned beef or sliced tongue with horseradish on rye bread.

Roquefort cheese, celery and mayonnaise on white bread or on celery as a garnish for salad.

Watercress on thinly sliced white bread, rolled and kept in refrigerator in damp cloth for 15 to 20 minutes.

custard cups. Bake in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 15 to 20 minutes. Unmold on toast rounds, garnish with parsley and serve.

Few children would pass up this delicious cheese 'n bread dish—it's delicious and good for them, too!

Cheese Fondue. (Serves 6)

- 3 eggs, separated
- 1 cup grated cheese
- 1 cup bread crumbs
- 1 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Beat egg yolks until lemon colored. Cook cheese, bread crumbs, milk, butter and salt over low heat, stirring constantly. Add beaten egg yolks. Fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour into a well-greased casserole. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes or until inserted knife comes out clean.

An afternoon party menu may consist of assorted sandwiches.

Deviled Egg and Cheese Sandwiches.

- 3 hard-cooked eggs
- 1 tablespoon dry mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce
- 6 slices buttered whole wheat bread
- 3 wafer-thin slices of Swiss-type cheese

Watercress Dill pickles

Cut eggs, crosswise and into halves. Mash yolks and blend with mustard, salt and worcestershire sauce, mixing well. Fill the whites. Cut eggs into thin slices and arrange on three slices of bread. Top egg slices with cheese and a second piece of bread. Cut in halves and garnish with watercress and dill pickles.

A citrus fruit drink is refreshing, fine for keeping up young spirits busy at play during party time.

Keep all the flavor in the orange juice plus valuable vitamin C by squeezing it only just before serving.

To have chilled juice, chill whole oranges in refrigerator before extracting juice.

Wholesome drink with a party air is this cool glass of orange juice topped prettily with orange sherbet, decorated sprigs of mint and whole raspberries. Orange float will keep you cool and full of pep, for vitamin C helps mitigate effects of heat.

*Orange Sherbet.

- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1 cup water
- 2 egg whites stiffly beaten
- 2 cups orange juice
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice

Boil sugar and water together for 5 minutes. Beat egg whites slowly and add to fruit juices. Mix all ingredients and pour into freezing tray of mechanical refrigerator. Freeze stiff, then beat thoroughly. Return to freezing compartment and freeze until stiff.

*Peanut Butter Cookies (Makes 2 dozen)

- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup honey
- 3 tablespoons corn syrup
- 1/4 cup peanut butter
- 1/2 cup shortening
- Apple butter

Sift all dry ingredients together. Cream shortening, add to peanut butter, honey and corn syrup. Add flour and roll dough into size you prefer for finished cookies. Chill for 15 minutes. Cut into thin slices and top half of them with apple butter. Cover with a second slice of dough and seal as for a tart. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees) for 25 minutes.

RUBBER

When our present synthetic program has materialized, a B.F. Goodrich official predicts the resultant rubber surplus will cause one of the most serious post-war marketing problems. What to do with the huge stocks of synthetic and natural rubber will test the ingenuity of manufacturers and sales executives. A substitute for rubber adhesive tape is being sought. Thousands of pounds of this tape are being used to protect plastic airplane glass in transit to airplane factories. Seventy-three per cent of the 140,000 workers of 94 war plants in 10 states go to and from work by private automobiles. Nearly three-quarters of the cars used by these workers have tires more than half worn out, many of them unfit for re-capping.
